"GOD'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE WILL BE THE SPARING OF THE PRESIDENT'S LIFE."

John D. Milburn Reverently Expresses His Complete Confidence That the Head of the Nation Will Continue to Guide Its Affairs.

*The Chief Magistrate's Conservative Physicians Will Not Allow Themselves to Declare Him Out of Danger Absolutely,
But the Faithful Friends Are Rejoicing—The Wounded Executive Calmly
Plans for the Future and Asks for Newspapers.*

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MILBURN HOUSE (Buffalo) Sept. 9.—"God's contribution to the American people will be the sparing of the President's life."

As the evening shadows were falling tonight, John D. Milburn, president of the Pan-American Exposition, reverently uttered these words, as he stood before the house in which the nation's President was fighting so bravely with death. And all who have been at the Milburn residence reflect the view that the battle will be won, and the world's prayers answered.

Since last night, not an unfavorable symptom has appeared. Every hour has been a victory. Faith in the outcome grows stronger and stronger, and hope mounts, until, in the minds of some, the danger of all future complications has vanished and hope has become conviction. Indeed, many of the President's confidence in the President's recovery which nothing but an absolute change for the worse can shake.

The basis for the confidence expressed is solid. There has been nothing but improvement, gradual, but sure. Every bulletin, every private and public word of the physicians in attendance breathes encouragement. The reports which the physicians have given out are facts as they exist from a scientific standpoint, unmixed with sentiment.

Nevertheless the President is not out of danger, is the verdict by all of them. Neither of them would risk his professional reputation with a statement that the President will live. All they will say is that with every hour the danger of complications from peritonitis or blood poisoning grows less. Dr. McBurney, the most eminent of the physicians in attendance, expressed the opinion that if the improvement continues, it will be a week yet before the President can be pronounced out of danger and convalescent. And some of the colleagues, like Dr. Mann, place the limit of danger still further away. The fear of peritonitis, it can be said positively, has well-nigh disappeared. At the expiration of the seventy-two hours, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, danger from that source was almost gone.

THE PRESIDENT'S CONFIDENCE.

The President himself has been cheerful and expressed confidence in his recovery. Today he asked for a morning paper, but this, of course, had to be denied him. It is with some difficulty that he can be restrained from talking, and Col. M. T. Herrick of Cleveland is quoted as authority for the statement that he has spoken at intervals of several times he proposed to do in the future. This afternoon he asked to be allowed to change his position, and when permission was given, before the attendants could aid him, part tomorrow or Wednesday, if the improvement continues.

Vice-President Roosevelt has occupied a peculiar, delicate and trying position since the event which threatened the President's life, but he has borne himself throughout this ordeal in such a manner as to win the admiration and respect of all. It has moreover added a new bond between the Vice-President and those intimately associated with the President and the latter are warmest in the expressions of the manner in which he has met every requirement of the situation. Not for a moment has he permitted the idea to be entertained that there was need for consideration of the constitutional disability of the President and the exercise of executive functions which this would impose upon him. On the contrary, Mr. Roosevelt has been one of the most positive in the conviction that the President would recover. During the long period of Garfield's illness, difficulties arose as to what constitute the disability of the President with the meaning of the Constitution.

VICE-PRESIDENT AND CABINET.

The extreme optimism of the Vice-President and the members of the Cabinet would be difficult to overstate.

"I am absolutely confident everything will turn out all right," declared the Vice-President, and he said he based his information behind the public expressions of the physicians. So relieved are Secretary Gage and Atty-Gen. Knox at the steady improvement that they returned to Washington tonight feeling strongly that their chief would recover, but with the assurance of the physicians that if a change for the worse should come it would be gradual, and they would have ample time to return. In the case of Secretary Gage there was also a public reason why he should be at his post.

New York financiers have appealed to him to relieve the situation in the money market by increasing deposits in national banks, and he feels that he can hardly act at this distance from the scene if he finds that action is desirable.

Secretary of State Hay is due to arrive tonight, and will remain with the other members of the Cabinet at least for a day or two. The devotion of the members of the Cabinet to their chief is touching. All would desire to remain near him until the crucial period is passed, and Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Wilson avowed that only absolute and imperative public business will induce them to depart before the President is pronounced out of danger. Senator Hanna will also remain until the physicians have an absolute assurance that the President will live.

Comptroller Dawes and some of the other eminent men connected with the administration expect to de-occasion, and the Vice-President himself has been primarily responsible for the avoidance of any thought of temporary exercise of executive functions by him. Nor has there been occasion for the executive authority for such minor routine matters come as readily be left until the present emergency has passed.

Twice during the day and again tonight the Vice-President has called at the Milburn house to inquire as to the President's condition. During the afternoon he met several of the Cabinet officers and Senator Hanna, and spent a short time with them in a formal discussion. On the streets of Washington he has been the center of a respectful attention, but he has with this dignity and composure despite the remarks that he was going about guarded by the Secret Service men, he has positively declined to have anything like guard near him. One of his remarks today, in speaking to two persons who greeted him, struck a popular chord. They had asked if he were afraid of being shot.

"No, indeed," he replied. "You are our protection, and the fruit of Friday will only make you more vigorous in protecting those who you elect to office."

The Vice-President will not leave the city until the physicians of the President issue a bulletin or give opinion that the President will positively recover. Tonight, in company with his host, Ansley Wilcox, he went out for a short time. He is within

RELATIVES REJOICE AND ARE GOING HOME.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

MILBURN HOUSE, Sept. 9.—After the 9:30 bulletin had been issued from the Milburn residence, announcing a continuance of the favorable condition of the President, there were many indications that the bulletins were not merely indications of the real improvement of the distinguished patient. At 9:45 o'clock, Miss McKinley, a sister of the President; Dr. and Mrs. Hermann Baer, the latter a niece of the President, and the Misses Barber, nieces of the President, left the house, and, taking carriages, announced their intention of returning to their homes tonight.

Abner McKinley accompanied them to the station, and to the Associated Press representative said: "The nearest relatives of the President are so confident of his recovery that they have no hesitation in leaving."

Postmaster Frazee of Canton, a warm personal friend of the President, who came today, filled with anxiety, said tonight: "I go back tonight because I have the most positive assurance that the President is going to make a rapid recovery."

In fact, by 10:30 o'clock tonight the entire temple of everybody about the Milburn residence seemed to have undergone a radical change.

The police did not stop wagons from going by the nearest corner at high speed. The regular army guard was not large enough, but this is not the case. It was found to be amply satisfactory. The heart, liver and lungs of Dr. Kenerson were plainly distinguished. The kidneys and the lumbar vertebrae, in their region of which the President was lying, were not distinguished. Dr. Rowell Park declared the test satisfactory and beyond expectation. The sixty coils of the apparatus have been charged with 150 volts 200 amperes, enough to last for five hours.

The examination of the President will be made probably tomorrow, this depending on his continued favorable condition. There is little thought of the President's recovery, when the critical period will have passed. The only object in using the X-ray is to locate the bullet for the satisfaction of the President and of the physicians. There will be no attempt to remove it, unless septic poisoning sets in, the forerunner, which is instantaneous, giving an interior view, but obtaining no permanent impression, will be used and not the radiograph, which requires a posing of fifteen or twenty minutes, though that produces a picture of the exact condition. The President will not be

DR. McBURNEY'S OPINION FAVORABLE.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

MILBURN HOUSE (Buffalo) Sept. 9.—Dr. McBurney said to an Associated Press reporter after the issue of the 3 o'clock bulletin that all the indications continued favorable.

"No bad symptoms have appeared," said he. "No one can say now that the President is out of danger, and for a week still the possibility of complications may exist. At the end of that time, if all goes well, we may be able to say that he is convalescent."

"But I have known a case," put in Dr. Mann, who was with the noted surgeon, "to go well for ten days and then change for the worse."

"That is true, perhaps," said Dr. McBurney, somewhat deprecatingly, "but it is entirely unusual. If the President continues to improve for a week, we may safely say he is a convalescent. It will probably be three weeks before it will be safe to move him. We must wait until the outer wound is healed and strong. The inner wounds, through the stomach proper, will be strong before the exterior wound is. How long it will be before he will be able to sit up will depend upon the rapidity of his improvement, and I may say to you further that 'his improvement, if it continues, promises to be rapid.'"

NOT LIKE GARFIELD'S CASE.

Dr. McBurney was asked to compare the Garfield case and the treatment with that of President McKinley. He smiled as he replied that to do so would be to give the whole history of the progress of surgery during the last twenty years.

"Besides," he said, "the cases are utterly different. Garfield's wound was an extremely unfortunate one in every way. It was difficult to handle; it was impossible to get at the bullet, while the wound of President McKinley is in many respects a lucky one. No comparison is possible."

Turning to the Associated Press representative, Dr. McBurney said: "You may assure your clientele that all goes well. President McKinley's condition could have hardly been more satisfactory. Furthermore, you may impress and emphasize the fact that bulletins issued state the truth."

doubt the most sanguine of the government officials here, unless it be Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who predicts that the President will be out in two weeks.

The Vice-President said today: "I came here because I believed in the place where the President was and I will not leave until the situation has entirely cleared up. If I were predicting when shall leave here, I would say tomorrow, because I firmly believe that the physicians will announce that there is absolutely no doubt that the President will recover. I have been twice to the President's temporary home today, and I have seen nothing but smiling happy faces, including a host of physicians, and that would not be so if the bulletins did not tell the exact truth."

Dr. Mann said that some nourishment had been administered today in the form of enemata, and he had taken water in the stomach. It was found that cold water did not agree with him, and instead, water as hot as the President's body temperature was given. The President's bowels are moving freely, and this is considered an excellent symptom.

MILBURN HOUSE, Sept. 9.—The following bulletin was issued by the physicians at 9:30 o'clock p.m.: "The President's condition continues favorable. Pulse, 112; temperature, 101; respiration, 27."

doubt the most sanguine of the government officials here, unless it be Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who predicts that the President will be out in two weeks.

The Vice-President said today: "I came here because I believed in the place where the President was and I will not leave until the situation has entirely cleared up. If I were predicting when shall leave here, I would say tomorrow, because I firmly believe that the physicians will announce that there is absolutely no doubt that the President will recover. I have been twice to the President's temporary home today, and I have seen nothing but smiling happy faces, including a host of physicians, and that would not be so if the bulletins did not tell the exact truth."

BOSTON TRADES UNIONS. WHOLESOME UTTERANCES.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Trades unions of Boston took action on the attempted assassination of the President at the various meetings last night, and in every case they expressed their sorrow at the deed committed in Buffalo on Friday.

In a number of these meetings, the advocates of resolutions of sympathy for the family of the President took the floor, and in some cases made most emphatic terms, and to reiterate the sentiment that nothing in the way of industrial or social reform could be achieved by the murder of innocent people or by violence of any character.

TALMAGE OUTSPOKEN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—In the course of his sermon in Ocean Grove, N. J., yesterday, Dr. T. Dwight Talmage of Washington said: "I wish that politicians in Buffalo who sold the plot of the assassin who shot our adored President had taken the butt of the weapon and dashed the man's brains out on the spot."

BILLY MASON WOULD REDEFINE TREASON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Senator William E. Mason, in speaking of the enactment of laws to prevent the gathering of anarchists, said: "The man that attempted to kill President McKinley is guilty of treason. A law should be enacted by the government that would prohibit the teaching of treason and deal with those guilty of the crime."

LORD ROTHSCHILD.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(By Atlantic Cable.) "The feeling of the British financial world," said Lord Rothschild this morning to a representative of the Associated Press, "is that President McKinley will get well and everything come out all right. ## THE LONDON PRESS. KINDLY, BUT CRITICAL.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Daily Telegraph takes the opportunity to print a column dissertation on "America of today," describing a continent's coming of age and dealing with the political and commercial future of the United States.

All the papers again print editorials rejoicing in the President's satisfactory progress and discussing his character and influence on the United States, and what can possibly be done to prevent anarchy on the continent.

ILINOIS GO. PLANS WILL GO FORWARD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The latest advice received from Buffalo by Commissioner J. W. Templeton and E. J. ## WATSON'S WORDS. "ALL MCKINLEY MEN."

CAMPAIGN IN OHIO. NOT CALLED OFF.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN DECLINES DEMOCRATIC PROPOSAL.

Fidelity to Garfield's Memory Does Not Call Us to Abandon Contest for Our Stricken President's Principles, Now the Foremost Issue.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 9.—Chairman M. A. Daugherty of the Democratic State Executive Committee today addressed a letter to Chairman Charles Dick of the Republican State Committee, suggesting that, as an evidence of respect for the President, the two parties should suspend their campaign in Ohio for the coming year.

The Novoe Vremya, the Vedomosti, the Rossiya and other journals express hope for the speedy recovery of the President and dilate upon the friendship which exists between the United States and Russia.

The entire Russian press is extremely sympathetic with President McKinley and the American people and all condemn the anarchy which has occurred and demand the adoption of more efficient means for their repression and suppression.

The Journal de St. Petersburg says: "It is earnestly to be hoped that civilized communities will realize that all that has been done so far has been but a mere mark, and that redoubled energy is needed in the struggle against anarchy."

ITALIANS THANKFUL. CZOGLOZ NOT AN ITALIAN.

MILAN, Sept. 9.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Commenting on the attempted assassination of President McKinley, La Perseveranza said:

The translation of the resolutions sent to Secretary Hay is, in part, as follows:

ANARCHIST CORN. "RASH AND UNWARRANTED ACT."

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Dr. A. M. Cohn of Brooklyn, who was chosen to represent the United States at the International Congress of Anarchists in Paris, a few years ago, is quoted in the Tribune as saying:

"The shooting of President McKinley could not entitle the man to be called an anarchist, nor would the act cause his denunciation by the brotherhood. Probably Czogloz thought that McKinley was to blame for various outrages. As for myself, I think the shooting was a rash and unwarranted act."

HUNTING DOWN ANARCHISTS.

Police Investigating an Alleged Conspiracy.

Colgozsz Declared That He Had No Partners.

His Record at Various Places. Search for Emma Goldman—Maggio.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Colgozsz has made no additional admission to the police officials, and nothing that he has learned from him is added toward a solution of the case. He still insists that he alone conceived, planned and carried out the crime, and that alone must answer for it. He admitted that he attended meetings at which Emma Goldman spoke, and that he and his fellow-anarchists discussed the propaganda of murder, but he steadily denies that any of them had a part in his plan. He talks of them as fairly general, and did divide to them any feature of his plan to come here and kill the president. His statement on this score, made Saturday, created the impression that he was engaged in a free talk with his associates on this particular crime, but he now says there was no justification for that impression.

He says the prisoner is weary, physically and mentally, and the strain of his crime, imprisonment and the ordeal of questioning are too much for him. He says that he is not a radical anarchist, but a man who is not a radical enough to avoid admissions damaging character on the ground of his anarchist conviction. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—United States Secret Service officers in Chicago have come to the conclusion that the attempted assassination of President Hoover was the result of a plot arranged in this city, and have telegraphed Chief White of the Secret Service who is now in Buffalo, asking him to send Colgozsz's coat to Chicago immediately. The officers believe the mark on the coat's collar, which they found, was made by a tailor who lived very near the house of Abraham Lincoln, one of the anarchists who was held on a charge of conspiracy.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—It was learned today that the demand for an anarchist, called for mail at the St. Louis postoffice at 9 o'clock a.m. Saturday. In the afternoon she called again and made a request that the mail be forwarded to the general delivery at Chicago. Two of Chief Desmond's detectives were in the corridor of the Federal building at Chicago, where she directed that her letters be sent, others express the opinion that she may have given the Chicago address simply to throw the detectives off her real track.

funds, and she wrote bitterly of the success of Prince Krapotkin, who got $750 for one address, while she had to speak in the open air, and get nothing.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Carl Nold and Harry Gordon, well-known Pittsburgh anarchists and intimate friends of Emma Goldman, were arrested here this afternoon. Nold was a friend of Berkman, who shot H. C. Fry. A thorough search of the lodgings of Gordon and Nold failed to reveal anything criminal further than a lot of anarcho-literature. A number of letters were seized, none having any bearing on the crime of Colgozsz. No further arrests were made. It is learned on what is considered good authority that the arrest of the two men was made upon a telegraphic request from the police department of Buffalo, and that the Buffalo officials have ordered them held pending further instructions. It is also said that Emma Goldman has been located at some point in Ontario, which gives rise to the suspicion that she may have been directly connected with the attempted assassination of the President.

There is a strong suspicion that the President came to Pittsburgh with Miss Goldman on her last visit. She came here from Rochester and on her way stopped at Buffalo, the detectives who have been tracing her movements say. There was in her company a young man, identified in every way as the general description of Colgozsz, except that the suspect was a very slight, brown-haired man accompanied the woman from the station to the house of Gordon.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Police and Secret Service officials are convinced that Emma Goldman, whose revolutionary speeches suggested to Colgozsz the idea of the assassination of the President's life, is in the city. A young man who represented himself as a friend of Emma Goldman, called at the general delivery bureau of the Chicago postoffice today and inquired for mail in her name. He was told that the mail was substituted in charge of the window, and not thinking of the valuable clue that was thus presented, he accepted the whereabouts of the woman, the clerk permitted the man to go without hindrance.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—United States Secret Service officers in Chicago have come to the conclusion that the attempted assassination of President Hoover was the result of a plot arranged in this city, and have telegraphed Chief White of the Secret Service who is now in Buffalo, asking him to send Colgozsz's coat to Chicago immediately. The officers believe the mark on the coat's collar, which they found, was made by a tailor who lived very near the house of Abraham Lincoln, one of the anarchists who was held on a charge of conspiracy.

charge that they conspired to murder the President. Several of the prisoners have admitted acquaintance with the would-be assassin Colgozsz, and the police are working on the theory that the President's assailant was inspired to do the deed by the teachings he received while here last July. The six male prisoners were held without bail, pending the hearing, while the three women arrested with them were held in bonds of $200.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—After a conference between Assistant City Prosecutor Owens and Attorney Leopold S. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Hunts of anarchists in this city were deserted yesterday, according to the police. Special detectives have been on the watch everywhere where members of the band are known to have collected for the past several days. Instructions have been issued to the owners of halls not to rent them to anarchists. The same conditions ruled in Paterson, where no big gatherings were held, as is customary Sunday.

Mayor Hinchliffe of Paterson has given notice that the City hall-keeper who rents his hall for anarchistic meetings will have his license revoked. Licenses will be refused to applicants known to be even remotely friendly with followers of the red flag.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) DENVER, Sept. 9.—A special to the News from Silver City, N. M., says Antonio Maggio, the musician and alleged anarchist, who is said to have been the assassin of the President before October, 1901, was arrested at Santa Rita, N. M., a mining camp near Silver City, at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, by United States Marshal E. F. Finner, on instructions from Washington.

Maggio has been playing a piano in a Union Square, San Francisco, since he was arrested. He is said to have frequently made the prediction that the President would be killed before October, since coming to this section in February last. He is quoted as saying that Emperor William of Germany will be the next ruler of the world.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Sept. 9.—George Braunraider, a member of the Soldiers' Home, was disbarred tonight and drummed out of the camp for expressing satisfaction at the shooting of the President.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—George Husemann, a mounted patrolman on the police force here, was subjected to the humiliating ordeal of having his insignia of rank taken from him before a crowd of brother officers in the office of the Chief of Police, on the charge of having made a remark that he was "glad that President McKinley was shot."

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A suggestion was thrown out in the Executive Department today that it would be proper for the American people to do something for the anarchists who were held on a charge of conspiracy. The suggestion was made by a member of the Executive Department, who said that the President's life was in danger, and that the American people should do something to help him.

Home Comforts.

THE joys of a comfortably furnished home in warm weather need no spokesmen, but much of our happiness depends upon the proper selection of the home accessories. We point to our stock of a thousand fancies—Carpet, every good kind; Fugs, from all countries; Matings, from the Flowery Kingdom; Draperies, from wherever the best are made; Curtains, domestic and imported—and dozens of suggestions all along the line that give an air of comfort to the mansion or the cottage.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) CLEVELAND, Sept. 9.—Paul Colgozsz, father of the man who attempted the assassination of the President of the United States, is now in the employ of the city of Cleveland. He was placed on the payroll of the Street Department today.

Harry Kline, spoken of as one of the anarchist leaders of the city, a self-avowed anarchist of the Tolstoid school, and the man at whose home Emma Goldman stopped when in Cleveland last spring, was appointed to a position in the Engineer's Department of the city government by Mayor Tom L. Johnson.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Pope has been so impressed by the attack on the President, says the Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail, that he intends to take the initiative in joint action by the Christian powers against anarchists. He is planning an important encyclical on the subject, which will be published next month.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Times this morning says whatever developments may come to pass at Buffalo, Wall Street will resume business this morning. It may be stated as a fact that the stock and money market's wise plan of action decided upon Saturday before the market opening by leading financiers of the country, and since that time more fully perfected, will today be lived up to in the largest sense and will be perfectly carried out. Be the development of the most unfavorable character (though fortunately at this writing all news is altogether hopeful) there need be no fear of any financial disaster nor dread of any stock market catastrophe.

THE FUTURE OF THE COMMERCE OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.

XII.—THE FUTURE OF POWER.

(By N. S. Shaler, Dean of Lawrence Scientific School, Harvard University.)

IT IS an interesting fact that all the forms of energy which have been and which, so far as we can see, can possibly be turned to use in the service of man, do not come from or reside in the earth, but are constant visitors from the celestial realm. The first of these forms of energy to be utilized, that of the winds, in propelling ships or turning windmills, is altogether due to the elementary, though innocent, heaving of the heat waves of the sun, which gives to the air movement which would absolutely lack but for that vibration of energy. The streams that turn our mill in the mill-race are likewise the result of the same might of the sun which served to lift the water to the high places of the land. The fuel we burn, whether it be wood, coal, rock oil or natural gas, is a reasonable measure, variable by kind of living organism, to be made by appropriating solar energy to separate carbon from oxygen and to store it in a combustible form, to be recovered in the process of burning, in which oxygen is recombined with the carbon, thus restoring the elements expended in pulling the atoms of these elements apart in building their frames. Thus, while it is not strictly true that the elements of the universe are the same, it is true that they are due to the sunshine of ancient days.

POWER FROM TIDES.

There is one interesting exception to the fact that the power that man may harness came from the sun. This is found in the tides. These oscillations in the level of the ocean lift their waters upward to a height of about one and a half times each day to the average height of perhaps four feet, and at many places, especially about the north Atlantic, to a height of more than twice that. While these surgings of the sea are partly due to the attraction of the sun, and partly to the attraction of the moon, the latter is the more potent cause in the sphere of the celestial realm, they are mainly brought about by the gravitational pull of the moon. In fact, the attraction of the moon for the earth's satellite is about nine-tenths of the weight. Until the steam engine was invented, the motive power of the distributed, mills driven by the tide existed in New England and elsewhere, but the fact that the high and low water of the tides was not constant on summer days made it difficult to adapt them to any industries. They are now superseded by the power of the sun, not altogether passed already, though, as we shall note hereafter, they may in time be most important to the interests of the future.

THE EARTH'S INTERNAL HEAT.

It has been suggested that in the internal heat of the earth there exists a store of energy which may in time be turned to vast advantage. It is true, but no more so, than the amplitude of this store. A mere trifle of it, which, by its taking away, would have no other effect than to reduce the temperature of the sphere by a few feet and shorten the length of the day by a fraction of about one second, would be sufficient to sap the needs of man during his sojourn on our planet. There is even a little doubt that it is heron the capacity of the earth to tap this store of power. Clearly we cannot expect to harness the volcano, nor to tap the heat of the interior of the earth to the depth where the temperature would be high enough to generate an available pressure from steam. For such a purpose, the heat of the interior would have to be sent down to the depth of between 18,000 and 2,000 feet to the depth of the earth's crust, before such a depth was attained the firmest rock urged by pressure would probably fill the opening. Even if the means for tapping this store of power were installed and for a time successful the neighboring rocks would soon be crushed and the whole structure would be destroyed. In a word, we must be content to wait the future of our larger activities, as for the future of our better part, or of that which comes to us from the celestial realm. It is surely a noble and, as we shall see, wise, coal gives out.

THE FUTURE OF COAL.

In making our reckoning on the future of power we may at once note that the resources on which we now mainly depend is evidently not to be counted on for the future. The coal of our coals, natural gas and rock oils, large as the stores appear in statistics and with all due allowance for the enormous quantities of coal and gas consumed, they are not inexhaustible. It is evident that we have no enduring source of supply. At the present rate of increase of the requirements of the dynamic requirements of man the lifetime of fuel-engines is a matter of centuries rather than of years. A review of the facts makes it seem altogether probable that in less than a century the requirements of man will be half that time, the supply of buried fuels of all kinds will be so far exhausted that the world will be forced to turn to other sources of power that the heavens send us. Let us consider how far these are likely to be of use to us as regards quantity and endurance.

UTILIZING THE WINDS.

Looking first to the movements of the air, let us consider how far they, so far as they are concerned with power, may help the coming needs of men. At present this engine, though of great and rapidly-extending use for pumping and for other uses, is in the opinion of many, is small, is generally condemned as a more general resource. This condemnation is due to the lack of the difficulty of its use. Wind power is best used at a moderate rate it would not be difficult to install an acre of ground machines which would produce a regular quantity of horse power. In many parts of the world the average dynamic value of the wind is such that a machine of this kind, within the height to which windmills might be lifted is sufficient to take the place of several tons of coal burned in a steam engine. It is true that the wind is not so constant as the sun, but it could be turned to account to serve all the conceivable commercial needs of man.

POWER FROM RIVERS.

As for the chance of using wind power in a large way it probably depends, so far as the future is concerned, on the development of mechanical arts, on the conversion of the energy thus explained to the use of the steam engine, and on the storage batteries. In the existing state of this invention the cost of such storage power obtained by means of windmills would be altogether impracticable, yet there is hardly a discovery whose improvement and cheapening we can look forward to with more confidence than the storage battery.

POWER FROM RIVERS.

The principal source of power in the ages after the store of coal and other carbonaceous materials is exhausted is evidently to be the river systems of the great lands. The dynamic value of quired by civilized people. To utilize this power to the practicable limit will require engineering construction on a scale vast that any other power source undertaken. It will also be necessary to retain a large part of the flow of water in the reservoirs and discharge it very slowly to the sea. To do this it will be necessary to convert a considerable portion of the available lands into reservoirs, the greater part of which, as being necessarily withdrawable from storage. Much of this stored water will be used for irrigation and for power, but for irrigation, so that it will be a loss in the agricultural value of the water course, not be great, if it seemed there should be any loss at all.

INDUSTRIES MAY GO SOUTH.

The possibilities of obtaining power from the rainfall of any region are in proportion to the amount of the precipitation and the height to which the water passes on its way to the sea. As these conditions are not uniform, the water power is not so commonly in scanty supply, it is evident that when men come to depend on the power of the water, they will make great readjustment in the seats of their industries. How far this change is to go, it is impossible to say. The stored water grain in the methods of transportation power by electric conduits, and the power of the water, which is now used for power has in no wise added to the power of the sources of energy open to man. It has greatly altered the conditions of the power of the water, but it has not made a revolution in this regard. It may be that the headwaters of the Nile will be the seat of the industries of the future of England, and that men of any region may share the energy which the sea will give to the world.

POWER FROM SUN'S RAYS.

It has often been proposed to gather the rays of the sun by reflectors upon a boiler so that the heat thus obtained could be turned into use by the steam engine. It is a very simple idea, but it is not so simple as it seems. It has, indeed, in a small way, been put to use. It is, however, doubtful if the project is at the present time a very practical one. It is, however, a very good idea. For it is only the middle part of the day that the sun is shining, and for only a few days, perhaps, in any region of the world. It is, however, a very good idea. For it is only the middle part of the day that the sun is shining, and for only a few days, perhaps, in any region of the world. It is, however, a very good idea. For it is only the middle part of the day that the sun is shining, and for only a few days, perhaps, in any region of the world.

METHODS OF UTILIZING TIDAL POWER.

We have already adverted to the dynamic value of the tides and suggested that to make avail of the power it appears necessary in some of the stores in batteries the larger part of the power of the tides is to be used. Further inspection of the matter shows that there are two other means of utilizing the power of the tides. One is to use the power of the tides to afford constant power. The least important of these is by impounding large quantities of water when the tide is in, and releasing it when the tide is out. The water wheels into basins empty and closed at low tide. By such a system the power of the tides can be stored and used at will. The other method is to use the power of the tides to produce a constant production of energy. This is done by using the power of the tides to drive a turbine which is connected to a generator. The turbine is placed in the stream of the tide, and the generator is placed on a platform which is raised above the water. The turbine is connected to the generator by a shaft, and the generator is connected to the power lines. The power of the tides is thus used to produce a constant production of energy.

AVAILABLE SOURCES INEXHAUSTIBLE.

As for the continuance of the sources of energy, it is a very simple matter to see that they are not exhausted. The power of the tides is not exhausted, for they will endure through all the centuries that are possible to man. We have no proof that as far back as the Cambrian period, the power of the tides was less than a hundred million years ago, for the lords of the sky were doing their work, and the power of the tides was not less than it is now. ## WOODWORTH SAYS HE DIDN'T DO IT.

Officers Have What Seems Like Partial Confession—Alleged Long Beach Robber in Jail Sick.

ORRIN L. WOODWORTH, the man who is accused of perpetrating that amazing $25,000 robbery at Long Beach, spent last night in a cell in the County Jail. He was brought down from Redwood City yesterday by Constable Wilson, and will be taken to Long Beach today.

He was interviewed in jail at some length by a Times reporter. He denies any knowledge of the robbery.

When you are about to be ushered into the presence of what may turn out to be a $25,000 robber you feel that it is an occasion. You are not prepared for a man, tired-eyed scholar, with hardly breath enough to speak above a whispering voice.

Dr. Woodward is ill, wretchedly ill. He was so exhausted yesterday that it seemed as though he were dragging himself by mere force of will to speak every sentence.

Candidly, he was not overjoyed to see the reporter.

He was lying on the upper berth in the United States tank when the turnkey came over to see him. It was with that weary, weary look of all jail.

Dr. Woodward was dressed in the faded blue overalls and the dejected look that forms the jail attire. When he was brought in, the man begged not to be put in the tank with the other prisoners, but he had to go through the regular coronation hall and all the rest of it.

When the Times reporter was announced, the prisoner was on his elbow in bed, and this was his first greeting: "I don't think I care to speak to any reporter today."

But he had to think again. That might dampen the ardor of some men, but it was not a reason for him. He is a melancholy, pale man, Dr. Woodward, with an "artist's beard" and a pair of eyes, and hair that he brushes back with his left hand, and with an expression of utter weariness.

"I was convinced that it would take him less time to talk than to keep explaining that he was too weary to talk," said Woodward. "I don't know anything about the money after I left it at the house of the woman who was the victim."

"I did not read Mrs. Kempley and Mrs. Wonders from the room," he said. "I was in the room, but I was not in the room."

At the talk went on, he lay on his back, and answered the questions with a weary, weary look.

"I don't know he was away; we had the deal all arranged and I was to come," he said.

"Did you not know anything about that money advertisement which called Mrs. Kempley to the house?"

"No," he said without the faintest show of interest. "I didn't know anything about it."

"Why did you leave town immediately after this?"

"I had planned to go away on the train, but I was told to go to the Pan-American Exposition."

Here his breath failed him and he had to wait a moment before he could get the words out.

"Did you intend to come back soon?"

"Yes, in a little while."

"It has been intimated that Mrs. Wonders was an accomplice of yours in this robbery," observed the reporter.

"I don't know anything about it, and I don't care to talk any more," the prisoner said, closing his eyes and talking no more.

He was asked something about the whereabouts of the deal between him and Kempley and Wonders, and he said that he was in the room, but he was not in the room.

"LOOKS BAD FOR ME." LONG BEACH, Sept. 10.—(From The Times Resident Correspondent.) From all the details which have been made public to date, it appears as if the man who had planned a gigantic swindle on the aged John Kempley, the farmer from Iowa, the man whom Kempley charges with this swindle is Woodward.

When first arrested, Dr. Woodward said that he was innocent of any crime whatever, but when the officers from Long Beach confronted him with what facts they had, the doctor said: "That looks bad for me, and I have done wrong, very wrong. I am sorry."

Constable Harry Wilson and John Kempley arrived in Long Beach today after having given Woodward over to the Sheriff at Los Angeles.

Mr. Kempley was nearly worn out from the journey and the excitement of the last few days, and went to a home immediately where he was taken by a Times reporter.

SHOUT KEMPLEY RETICENT. "There is nothing I can say at present," he said, "other than that we have been in Los Angeles."

He admitted to me that he had done wrong, and manifested great sympathy for his father and sister, who, he said, were entirely innocent of any wrong-doing.

When Kempley asked regarding his daughter, Woodward is said to have said that Mrs. Wonders was not connected with the robbery, and that any charge or suspicion hanging over her is groundless.

"When the proper time comes," said Kempley, "this mystery will be cleared up, and then I will make a statement."

to the press. As it is now, the public does not need to know any more.

He refused to discuss the case further.

ABOUT THOSE DIES. Regarding the supposed counterfeit dies which were found in his possession, Woodward said he had used them to stamp labels on bottles for a patent medicine he was making. When asked about certain minutes past regarding them he said: "That does look bad for me, doesn't it, and I was wrong, very wrong, in the whole business."

Woodward expressed a fear that it will go hard with him for having the die, and said nothing of the charge of robbery which he will have to answer.

HAD A VISION. A letter was found in Woodward's pocket which he had written to Kempley in which he said he had a vision or dream that he (Kempley) had been robbed last night. After dwelling on this point the epistle goes on with the wild, vaporous language of a disordered mind. It is evident that this letter was written by Woodward after he had been taken to jail, and had neglected to mail it.

PARTIAL CONFESSION. It is understood that a partial confession has been given from Woodward, which will help the officers to get at facts regarding the money transaction at the Kempley house. It appears that Woodward did not have the money when he obtained the deed from the woman, but that he was to get it later.

WOODWARD'S YOUTH. It was learned from Dr. Woodward's father today that Woodward had a severe illness when he was three years of age, and that for a time his life hung between life and death, and that his impediment of speech and it was never after before anyone not well acquainted with him could understand his talk. This illness was the cause of the limp he has to this day.

Further inquiry in the neighborhood of the Woodward tent shows that they were well thought of by a majority of the neighbors. While many of them noticed the strange things which were going on at times they attributed it to his physical condition. In all of their notices they were very kind and sympathetic.

There was only one exception, where anyone said anything that was derogatory to the family. When the one exception was made, it was found to be due to persons who are given to gossiping and who have done a great deal of harm to the family.

Brilliant Drills by Circle Guards and Crack Teams from the Camps.

With exercises suggestive of the ring of the forest, the crack of falling trees and the vine-embowered log cabin in the lush wilderness, the neighbors of the Woodmen of the World and of the Women of the Woodmen of the World, gathered at Long Beach yesterday.

Members of the various camps and circles from Los Angeles and neighboring counties thronged the seaside city and formed the largest gathering of the Woodmen of the World and of the Women of the Woodmen of the World, gathered at Long Beach yesterday.

FACE TO FACE WITH LAW.

A Plain Proposition in San Francisco.

Contracts Violated by Union Strikers.

Some Legal and Logical Deductions—Strike Maintained by Fear.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Turn about is fair play. By a suit brought by the Pacific Coast Shipyard Company against the Pacific Shipyard Association, the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, and Andrew Furuseth and other officials and members of the two unions, the unions have been set squarely face to face with a legal proposition that will help honest contractors a great deal.

The suit was filed yesterday in the superior court of San Francisco. It is for $25,000 and is for the breaking of a contract entered into between the Pacific Shipyard Company and the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, and Andrew Furuseth and other officials and members of the two unions, the unions have been set squarely face to face with a legal proposition that will help honest contractors a great deal.
